Breast Cancer Fundraising

Woodstock High School's DECA Chapter conducted a Coin Wars Competition between classes to raise money for breast cancer. A plastic milk jug was provided for each grade level donation, and tables were manned during lunch. The Senior class won the competition and received a trophy for their participation. A school-wide "Pink Out Day" was held during DECA Week for Breast Cancer awareness.

Cedartown High School and North Hall High School DECA Chapters sold The Pink Cookie from Otis Spunkmeyer in their school store. They also took pre-orders and hand-delivered to students.

Top fundraising DECA Chapter, Flowery Branch High School raised $2441. The school participated in a "Week of Pink". During the week, students participated in different activities such as "Tackle Cancer Thursday" where students wore their favorite football jersey.

Students, Faculty and surrounding schools purchased over 400 shirts for Friday's "Pink Out". In recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness, ness, the Flowery Branch Football Team not only displayed the Pink Out ribbon on their helmets, but also a pink ribbon was painted on the field.

The Glynn Academy DECA Chapter helped serve lunch at a local soup kitchen and invited a cancer survivor to speak to the members. One DECA member who aspires to be a professional baker, prepared, decorated (with pink frosting and pink ribbons), and packaged cookies for the
